

THANKSGIVING SAFETY TIPS REMINDERS

Curious and hungry pets can pose risks in the kitchen or at the dining table. They might rummage through trash, jump on counters, or accidentally knock over sharp or hot items. Even the most well-behaved pets can be tempted by enticing smells and the excitement of loved ones nearby. Staying alert can help keep them safe!

Skip the stuffing, gravy, and buttery dishes—they can upset your dog's stomach or be harmful!

Prepare a special treat for Thanksgiving! A stuffed Kong or a favorite toy saved for that day can keep your pup entertained, calm, and out of the kitchen amid the holiday chaos.

Thanksgiving can be overwhelming for even the best pups. Set boundaries with family by saying, "Our pup's feeling a bit nervous today. Let's give them some space."

Can you spot signs of a stressed dog? Dogs can feel anxiety, especially around new people. Watch your pup and provide a quiet, safe space for them. Review key commands like "leave it" and "no jumping" to help them handle Thanksgiving chaos.

Everyone loves making a plate for their pup, but what's safe? Stick to plain foods like carrots, turkey, green beans, and sweet potatoes.

Updated microchip information and collar ID tags. Visitors coming in and out can cause accidental escapes. Be sure your pet first aid kit is up to date in case of an emergency.
